Immanuel Lutheran Church

P. E. Kerkhoff, Pastor

Sunday School, 9:30 a. m. Divine worship, 10:00 a. m. Sermon: "Noah, a picture of our Lutheran Pilgrim Fathers."

What the Pilgrim Fathers of New England endured for the sake of religious principle entitles them to the respect they receive.

Another group of pilgrims were the Saxons who left their native land in 1839 because of religious persecution, and became the founders of confessional Lutheranism in America. We who are the spiritual descendants of these Lutheran pilgrims, who have retained the principles for which they stood, have much reason to rejoice and to celebrate their coming.

What Ails Us

All diseases have scientific names, most of which would not be recognized by the layman. If your doctor asked you if you were troubled with anorexia, you probably wouldn't know. But anorexia is merely the scientific term for loss of appetite.

Similarly, otalgia is earache, notalgia is backache, nostalgia is home-sickness, cephalgia is headache, odontalgia is toothache, variola is smallpox, varicella is chickenpox, pertussis is whooping cough, and so on throughout the long list of ills to which human flesh is heir.

And if your physician suggests that you are cacoethic, he is merely using a scientific way of saying you have a rotten disposition. If he says you are inclined to atony, he means you are just plain lazy.

But whatever ails us, the doctors, like the Greeks, have a strange name for it.

Extremes in Nature

An interesting list of the extremes in natural substances was recently compiled by Professor Hopkins of the University of Illinois, in which the following were named:

Radium is the most expensive, being worth about 100,000 times its weight in gold.

Platinum is the heaviest of well known metals, being 21 times as heavy as water, but the rare metal osmium and iridium are slightly heavier.

Hydrogen gas is the lightest ordinary substance, having only about one-fourteenth the weight of air, but a temporary gas produced in certain vacuum tubes is somewhat lighter.

Diamonds are the hardest substance known, but carborundum is almost as hard.

Electric furnaces produce the greatest heat known on earth, running up to nearly 7,000 degrees Fahrenheit, while the extreme in cold is solid helium and other gases which solidify at about 458 degrees below zero. These extremes of heat and cold are not natural, however, but are produced by artificial means.

Flu Still Baffling

In spite of all the research and experimental work that has been devoted to trying to find a preventive or cure for influenza, little of practical value has been accomplished, according to Dr. Bundesen, president of the Chicago Board of Health.

Even the length of time which must elapse between exposure and the development of the disease is not definitely known, but it is thought to be about 48 hours. The infection probably gets into the body through the nose and throat. Persistent efforts to discover vaccines or serums to overcome this infection have been unsuccessful.

Influenza begins suddenly with a chilly feeling and fever, sneezing and coughing. There is a headache, with pains in the legs and arms, and usually a sore throat. Other symptoms are similar to those of a common cold.

There are no definite measures which may be used effectively to combat the infection. The best treatment known at present is absolute rest in bed, taking plenty of liquids and such simple drugs as are necessary to relieve the pain and fever.

In other words, stay in bed, be as comfortable as possible, and let nature effect its own cure. This is the best procedure in case of a common cold, also. Continued work, exposure and neglect often lead to pneumonia.

Honey Halts Peas At Edge of Knife

During a recent study of Illinois customs, research workers learned of a way to eat peas which they believe is original. One resident, says the Illinois Writers' Project, WPA, made a metrical explanation of his very special method of consuming peas:

I eat peas with honey;
Done it all my life.
Makes the peas taste funny,
But keeps them on my knife.

Millions of New Acres In Military Tract

Among the huge Government land grants offered as bounties to soldiers who fought in the War of 1812 was the Military Tract in Illinois, according to accounts noted by the research workers of the Illinois Writers' Project, WPA. This land between the Illinois and Mississippi Rivers, comprised some 3,500,000 acres, most of which had been surveyed by the end of 1818.

With the tide of immigration towards the northern part of the state in 1830, large numbers of settlers moved into the Tract to make homes. By 1831 there were approximately 10,000 people in the southeastern part of the area, which included Calhoun, Pike, Adams, Schuyler, and Fulton Counties. An additional 2,000 inhabitants lived in other sections of the Military Tract, chiefly in Hancock, Knox and Henry Counties. There had been issued 17,075 patents for 2,831,840 acres of land by 1837.

Style Hazards Affect Early Golf Contests

When golf first won the hearts of feminine players in Illinois about 1901, style in attire seems to have made up for lack of skill in the game. Freedom and comfort were successfully barred by the high starched or boned collars, leg-o-mutton sleeves, and long skirts that swept the grass.

Notwithstanding these hazards, records show that the game was followed with high enthusiasm. At Danville, for example, all-day excursions to the links became popular. Women left for the courses early in the morning, taking the family horse and buggy and a noon lunch.

None of the scores of these early matches seem to have been of enough importance to record but reporters of the period, says the Illinois Writers' Project, noted that "balls frequently went astray and hit the horses, sometimes narrowly averting accidents."

Education Assisted When Teachers Talk

Forerunner of Teachers' Institutes in Illinois was a common school convention held in Chicago in 1846, said to be the first Teachers' Institute held in the state, according to research workers of the Illinois Writers' Project, WPA.

A quarter of a century later the organization had grown to such proportions that a County Institute of November 1871 reported "130 lady teachers and 30 gentlemen teachers in attendance." On July 16, 1891, Marion, Williamson County, was host to 103 teachers who attended an institute at which arrangements were made for similar institutes in every township in the county.

The man who is clever enough to be boss in the home is also wise enough not to brag about it.

A Kentuckian shot a neighbor who called him a common liar. No one likes to be called common.

Washington Monument had 134,698 visitors during September, of whom 11,571 walked to the top.

Do You Know Illinois?
By Edward J. Hughes
Secretary of State

Q. What method of raising funds for draining the American Bottom was authorized by the first Illinois General Assembly?

A. An act authorizing a lottery was passed at Kaskaskia in 1819.

Q. How was the lottery to be managed?

A. By a board of seven managers.

Q. Who were the managers?
A. Hugh H. Maxwell, Wm. C. Greenup, Geo. Fisher, Joseph A. Beard, and John Hay.

Q. What was the limit of the sum to be raised?

A. A sum not exceeding $50,000. The drainage was to be done commencing with ponds which were considered most detrimental to the health of the people.

Q. How was the money to be handled?

A. By a treasurer, appointed by the managers, who was bonded in the amount to be raised by any class of the lottery. The managers were charged with keeping records and reporting to the General Assembly at each session. Any money left over after completing the work was to be paid into the State Treasury.

Q. Was the lottery held immediately pursuant to the passage of the Act?

A. No evidence exists of any State sponsored lottery being held in Illinois until 1839.

Q. Are any broadsides announcing the results of the lottery drawings extant?

A. Yes. There are four known ones. Two are in the Chicago Historical Society and two were found in the library of the University of Illinois.

Q. Where were the drawings made?

A. Harrisonville, Illinois, in January 1839.

Q. Was the lottery successful in achieving its purpose?

A. Apparently not, for the State subsequently passed legislation appropriating monies for purpose of draining the American Bottom.

Q. When were lotteries declared illegal in Illinois?

A. By act of the legislature in 1847 all laws or parts of laws establishing any lotteries in the State and all laws authorizing the selling of lottery tickets were repealed and the sale of lottery tickets was prohibited under penalty. Lotteries were declared illegal by the Constitution of 1848 and this disability of the General Assembly to authorize lotteries is in the Constitution of 1870 (present).

Much has been said about safe driving. Many lessons have been learned through bitter experience, disappointment, accident, and death.

The lesson of safety when once learned thoroughly should stick with us like our shadow. It should become a part of us like our arms or our legs.

Let's adapt these safety methods we read and hear about. It doesn't cost anything. The main job is to make up our minds once and for all that we will drive safely, and then stick to the resolution.

It's smart to drive carefully!
